AGUA DE MAGNOLIA.
A toilet delight. Superior to any cologne, used to cleanse the face and person, to render the skin soft and fresh, to allay inflammation, to perfume clothing, for headache, &c. It is manufactured from the rich southern Magnolia, and is obtaining a patronage quite unprecedented. It is a favorite with actresses and opera singers. It is sold by all dealers, at $1,00 in large bottles, and by Demas Barnes & Co., New York, Wholesale Agents.
Saratoga Spring Water, sold by all Druggists.

S. T.--1860--X.
Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid fever, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated PLANTATION BITTERS, which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities, and are warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supersede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required.
They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.
They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya Bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.
Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. stamp unmutilated over the cork with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. ☞. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. ☞Any person proceeding to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters, from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

Have you a hurt child or a lame horse? Use the Mexican Mustang Liniment.
For cuts, sprains, burns, swellings and caked breasts, the Mexican Mustang Liniment is a certain cure.
For rheumatism, neuralgia, stiff joints, stings and bites, there's nothing like the Mexican Mustang Liniment.
For spavined horses, the poll evil, ringbone and sweeny, the Mexican Mustang Liniment never fails.
For wind-galls, scratches, big-head and splint, the Mexican Mustang Liniment is worth its weight in gold.
Cuts, bruises, sprains and swellings, are so common and certain to occur in every family, that a bottle of this Liniment is the best investment that can be made.
It is more certain than the doctor—it saves time in sending for the doctor—it is cheaper than the doctor, and should never be dispensed with.
"In lifting the kettle from the fire, it tipped over and scalded my hands terribly. * * * The Mustang Liniment extracted the pain, caused the sore to heal rapidly, and left very little scar.
CHAS. FOSTER, 420 Broad street, Philada.
Mr. S. Litch, of Hyde Park, Vt., writes: "My horse was considered worthless, (spavin,) but since the use of the Mustang Liniment, I have sold him for $150. Your Liniment is doing wonders up here."
All genuine is wrapped in steel plate engravings, signed, G. W. Westbrook, Chemist, and also has the private U. S. stamp of Demas Barnes & Co., over the top.
Look closely, and be not deceived by counterfeits.
Sold by all Druggists at 25, 50 cts, and $1,00.

It is a most delightful Hair Dressing.
It eradicates scurf and dandruff.
It keeps the head cool and clean.
It makes the hair rich, soft and glossy.
It prevents the hair turning gray and falling off.
It restores hair upon prematurely bald heads.
This is just what Lyon's Kathairon will do. It is pretty—it is cheap—durable. It is literally sold by the carload, and yet its almost incredible demand is daily increasing, until there is hardly a country store that does not keep it, or a family that does not use it.

Who would not be beautiful? Who would not add to their beauty? What gives that marble purity and distingue appearance we observe upon the stage and in the city belle? It is no longer a secret. They use Hagan's Magnolia Balm. Its continued use removes tan, freckles, pimples, and roughness, from the face and hands, and leaves the complexion smooth, transparent, blooming and ravishing. Unlike many cosmetics, it contains no material injurious to the skin. Any Druggist will order it for you, if not on hand, at 50 cents per bottle.

Helmstreet's inimitable Hair Coloring is not a dye. All instantaneous dyes are composed of lunar caustic, and more or less destroy the vitality and beauty of the hair. This is the original Hair Coloring, and has been growing in favor over twenty years. It restores gray hair to its original color by gradual absorption, in a most remarkable manner. It is also a beautiful hair dressing. Sold in two sizes—50 cents and $1—by all dealers.

THE SMACK IN SCHOOL.

A district school not far away,
'Mid Berkshire hills, one winter's day
Was humming with its wonted noise
Of three-score mingled girls and boys;
Some few upon their task intent,
But more on furtive mischief bent;
The while the master's downward look
Was fastened on a copy-book;
When suddenly, behind his back,
Rose sharp and clear a rousing SMACK!
As 'twere a battery of bliss
Let off in one tremendous kiss!
"What's that?" the startled master cried;
"That, thir," a little imp replies,
"Wath William Willith, if you pleath—
I thaw him kith Thuthannah Peathe!"
With frown to make a statue thrill,
The master thundered "Hither, Will!"
Like wretch o'ertaken in his track,
With stolen chattels on his back,
Will hung his head with fear and shame,
And to the awful presence came—
A great, green, bashful simpleton,
The butt of all good-natured fun—
With smiles suppressed and birch upraised
The threatener faltered—"I'm amazed
That you, my biggest pupil, should
Be guilty of an act so rude!
Before the whole set school to boot—
What evil genius put you to't?"
"'Twas she, herself, sir," sobbed the lad,
"I didn't mean to be so bad—
But when Susannah shook her curls,
And whispered I was 'fraid of girls,
And dursn't kiss a baby's doll,
I couldn't stand it, sir, at all,
But up and kissed her on the spot!
I know—boo-hoo—I ought to not,
But, somehow, from her looks—boo-hoo—
I thought she kind o' wished me to!"

THE EMPRESS JOSEPHINE.

At Martinique, and in the year 1763, was born one of the most fortunate, and at the same time unfortunate, women whose feet ever pressed our mortal earth.

She was called Josephine Tascher, and her young days were spent happily and blithely amongst the negroes of her aunt's estate, for it would appear that Josephine's mother and father thought no more could be required of them than to bring a child into the world. It was not known whether they ever saw the child after leaving it with the aunt. Her "father" had been a captain in the French army, and had retired to an estate in St. Domingo, on which he probably died.

The girl, Josephine, grew to be very beautiful. Her eyes were deep blue, shaded by black lashes, and her hair was of a rich brown; but her chief beauty lay in the varying expression of her face, to which may be added that her voice was remarkable for its sweetness and even tenderness. She was medium height. Flowers were a passion with her, and so, also, was reading.

She had a favorite foster sister named Euphemie, a mulatto; and with this companion, who never left her—who followed her through her upward and ambitious flight—she would ramble throughout a summer's day.

Upon one of these occasions, when Josephine was so near womanhood as to have the day of her marriage fixed, she encountered an aged woman, who, seeing her, screamed, and seizing her hand, declared she would one day be Queen of France. Josephine laughed—but she half believed.

She married the Viscount Alexander de Beaubarnais, and the couple journeyed to France and to Paris. Here they created quite a sensation in society, for he was equally beautiful with herself. They attended at court, of course, and the poor, fated Marie Antoinette took notice of the colonial lady. How little did the Queen think that some years the young lady which she was pleased to admire would bear a title even higher than that of queen, and would hear it in the very place within which the Queen of France was speaking, and as the mistress in that palace.

Of this marriage resulted a son (Eugene) and a daughter (Hortense) who ultimately became the mother of the present Emperor of the French. Everything promised happiness to the young couple, but clouds will rise in the brightest day, and a beautiful morning may lead to a night of raging and a terrible storm.

Suddenly the viscount became intolerant, some say mad; and, as the unhappy result, the husband and wife separated. He remained in France, while Josephine returned to Martinique, accompanied by her children.

In that island she remained till the news of the Revolution, when, perhaps, fear for the life of her husband induced her to return to France, and it was during the journey home that an incident to moralize over occurred. The little Hortense, the future mother of an Emperor, wore away the only pair of shoes she had by dancing about, and her little feet were cut and bleeding. A rough sailor made her a new pair out of an old boot of his own, and in these botches the mother of Napoleon the Third was once more happy and dancing about.

The pair of boots are historical, for Josephine kept them, and when, in after days, she was Empress of the French, she showed them stored up in her grand jewels—they were the "jewels" of her memory, and she kept them by her till the day came when she floated towards God, as we all must, alone, each with his dread account.

Her husband soon fell a victim to the Revolution, and she was a widow. Then she was a prisoner, a poor "aristocrat," condemned to die for the crime of her birth.

It was now that the prophecy of the old woman began to take possession of her mind, and when several ladies were bewailing their own fate and her's too, she actually smiled, and told them the guillotine would never drink their blood nor her own; that she would become Queen of France, and that the ladies near her should form part of her royal household.

As she spoke, they heard the jailor give his dog a kick, and say "Out of the way, Robespierre!" And so she divined that Robespierre had fallen, since his namesake, the poor dog, had been called and kicked in one and the same moment.

But the "bad days" had not yet passed from Josephine. She was saved from death but not from poverty, and she had to beg almost, in order to live.

It was in 1795 that Napoleon, then Commandant of Paris, first saw Josephine. He met her at a ministerial soiree, but he first became interested in her life when she called to thank him for restoring to her son Eugene the sword his dead father had worn, and which had been yielded up to the government on the disarming of the citizens.

The fire of love once alight in Napoleon's heart, it soon burned brightly, and within a very few months from the time when they first saw each other, Josephine and Napoleon were married.

That Napoleon absolutely adored his wife is proved by many instances of extreme forethought and consideration. On he went, the conquering Napoleon, daily gaining more and more power, while Josephine gained new Napoleonists by her tact and policy, not the least of which was a great assumption of modesty. She lived at a quiet little estate called Malmaison, and all her thoughts seemed centered in her garden.

At last Napoleon was declared Consul, and Josephine was the wife of the man at whose disposal rested thirty millions of men.

From Malmaison to the Palace of the Luxemburg was an ascent; but that Palace was soon found inconvenient, and the consul had his wife, Madame Buonapart, then removed to the "Tuileries," the palace of the old kings.

By this time Josephine was thirty-six; men admired her so heartily, and she appeared so beautiful that she might have been called sixteen, and no one would have denied the assertion. A few years and the prediction of the old woman away in Martinique was fulfilled. Josephine was an Empress—and an Empress of France.

And now she had touched the highest pitch of all her earthly glory, and it is satisfactory to know that while she sat upon the throne she was gentle, charitable, courteous, and never vulgar.

Her misfortune has been the misfortune of many women who have had but one misfortune—she bore no imperial children. The Emperor wished to continue the line, and he divorced her.

There is no more touching page in history than that recounting Josephine's unhesitating obedience to Napoleon's wish. She laid down her crown without a murmur, and retired into private life back to the little estate at Malmaison, which she had quitted for so much grandeur, and where she returned to the old gardening pursuits of her comparatively earlier and humble days.

Perhaps the most touching portion of his pathetic historical chapter is the respect and love Josephine tendered to her rival and successor, Maria Louisa. She humbly asked to see the new Empress, but this the haughty Austrian refused to allow, and so Josephine bowed. When Napoleon's son was born, no one rejoiced more than Josephine, yet hard indeed to bear must she have felt her troubles—especially when the Emperor sent her word, a day or so after the birth of his son, that he had not had time to write to her, because he could not cease to gaze upon his child. How the poor dethroned Empress must have wept as she told herself here was yet another barrier to the old love Napoleon had felt for her.

At last—Napoleon fell. And the allies were about entering Paris. Then Josephine prepared to leave the old house at Malmaison, when a gracious message came to her from the conquerors to remain and have no fear.

But she was even then dying. Gradually she sank; early in May, 1814, she became worse, and on the 4th of that month she fell asleep, and so died after declaring in her last words that France should be grateful, for she had striven much for the good of France.

So she died. There have possibly been many better women. And there have been many thousands worse.

THE MOTHER.—There is something in sickness that breaks down the pride of manhood; that softens the heart, and brings it back to the feelings of infancy. Who that has languished, even in advanced life, in sickness and despondency; who that has pined on a weary bed, in the loneliness and neglect of a foreign land, but has thought on the mother "that looked on his childhood," that smoothed his pillow and administered to his helplessness? Oh! there is an enduring tenderness in the love of a mother to a son, that transcends all other affections of the heart. It is neither to be chilled by selfishness, nor daunted by danger, nor weakened by worthlessness, nor stifled by ingratitude. She will sacrifice every comfort to his convenience; she will surrender every pleasure to his enjoyment; she will glory in his fame and exult in his prosperity; and, if misfortune overtake him, he will be dearer to her from misfortune; and if disgrace settle upon his name, she will still love and cherish him in spite of his disgrace; and if all the world beside cast him off, she will be all the world to him.

☞A lady seeing a drunken man in the gutter, said she was afraid he was dead. Pat, who had been near enough to smell his breath exclaimed: "Faith, and I wish I had half his disease."

☞The greatest nutmeg ever known met with a grater.

"I was a Hungered."

It was sleeting fast. Evening was falling. The streets were almost deserted.

Suddenly a voice at my elbow said, "I am not fit for work and have eaten nothing to-day."

I looked at the speaker. He was an able bodied man, but had lost both arms by amputation; he was evidently a discharged soldier. He was pale, too, as if from recent sickness, or from scanty food. He had an old thread-bare coat.

My first impulse was to give him something. But my coat was buttoned tight; I could not easily unbutton it and continue to hold my umbrella and book; and to crown all, the street car for which I had been waiting, at that moment came up.

"I haven't nothing to-day," I said, turning from the man and beckoning to the driver.

I heard a sigh, as I turned and was on the point of reconsidering my decision, but I reflected that if I missed this car I should have to wait ten minutes in the road. "Besides," I said myself, "somebody else will be sure to give him something."

But my heart smote me, when, on looking after the man, I saw him go sadly down the street with bent head. Once I thought of stopping the car, overtaking him and giving him half a dollar. But while I hesitated the car passed the corner, and he was out of sight. It was too late.

I did not eat my dinner that day, with the usual appetite. I could not get that wan face out of my mind. At times the victuals seemed to choke me. What if he really was starving and no one would help him!

All through the evening the man's look haunted me. In vain my little daughter, seeing me abstracted, sang her sweetest ballads. In vain my wife sought to "cheer me up," as she said. I even dreamed of the man. If I had known where to find him I would have gone the next day, to satisfy myself that he had received assistance.

But the impression gradually wore off. There is so much suffering now in great cities that almost every one becomes hardened to it. I persuaded myself finally that the man had been helped by others. "There are so many societies to aid soldiers," I said. It was uncomfortable to think otherwise.

One morning, about four days after the interview, my wife was reading the paper, when she suddenly laid it down and cried, "How shocking."

I do not know how it was, but I felt a sudden chill. I thought instantly of that man's wan face. But I said carelessly, as I broke my egg,

"What is it, my dear?"

"Oh! such a horrible story. A discharged soldier, his wife and two children, dying of starvaion. At least the wife is dead, one of the children not expected to live. None have had anything to eat for four days. They were found in an old out house. The husband is said to have lost both arms at Gettysburg."

My hand trembled so much that, long before my wife finished, I had been compelled to lay down my egg unopened. She was looking at the paper and did not see me.

I had no appetite after that. I rose immediately and hastened down town, for I was sure this was the man whose petition I had rejected.

I went straight to see him. I had the paper in my pocket, and it directed me to the miserable out-house, where the sufferers had been found.

Quite a crowd had been collected on the outside. But a policeman at the door permitted no one to go in. He knew me, however, and on my expressing my wish, allowed me to enter.

A sheet, furnished by some poor neighbor, was spread over a still waxen face in the corner; a little girl was sobbing beside it; and a man bowed with grief sat at the foot. At the sound of the footsteps he looked up. It was the same wan face I had repelled at the corner of the street.

Since that day I have never turned away from old or young who had asked alms. Better give to a thousand who are unworthy, than refuse one who is really in need.

NECK-TWISTING IN CHURCH.—A good story is told of an eccentric old parson, who was sorely annoyed by a habit his people had acquired (and which prevails by-the-way, in all other churches, even now and hereabouts to some extent) to twisting their necks around every time anybody entered the door, and passed up the aisle of the meeting house to see what manner of person it might be.

Wearied with the annoyance, the old man exclaimed one Sunday:

"Brethren, if you will only cease turning your heads round, whenever the door opens and will keep your attention on me, I will promise to tell you as I preach, who it is that comes in."

Accordingly he went on with the services and presently made a stop as one of the deacons entered, saying—

"That is Deacon ——' who keeps the grocery opposite."

And then he announced, in turn, the advent of each individual, proceeding the while with his sermon as composedly as the circumstances would admit, when at last a stranger came in, when he cried out—

"A little old man in green spectacles, and a drab overcoat—don't know him—you can all turn round and look for yourselves this time."

It is hardly necessary to add that the good man carried his point, and there was but little neck-twisting seen in his congregation after that day.

Gambling--Giving.

We are rapidly becoming a nation of gamblers. Every sort of device is employed these days to delude people with the hope that they may obtain that for which they give no adequate equivalent. Lotteries, gift book, gift concerts, art unions, and a host of other gift enterprises, hold out their seductive inducements on every side. Every kind of benevolent undertaking, with some honorable exceptions, must have its raffle to dispose of some article to somebody for a hundredth part of its value, for the benefit of something or somebody. And provided only that the object be a good one, it is no matter if a taste for gambling be implanted in the minds of fifty young men who shall afterwards become harpies and make mankind their prey.

There are few old fashioned people in the world who are sorry to see the church degrade herself to receive the spoils of this sort of gain. How often have the hearts of the pious been pained at the account of a large sum of money raised at a church fair by means of a raffle. And how many good people are kept aloof from all these expedients to raise money because the gambling leprosy has tainted them! How is it possible for a minister of a church to stand upon the Lord's day and rebuke sin, when he receives for his hire the wages of sin, or some ornament or decoration of his church, in the full view of his congregation, is, purchase with the reward of unrighteousness? Is it not the most rational thing in the world for young men to go away from the pious gambling at a church fair, and take part in the infamous gambling, in one of the "hells?" And is it any wonder that his moral sense becomes befogged in endeavoring to draw the distinction between the innocent raffle for a ladies' patch-quilt, and standing up square at a faro table and "fighting the tiger?" The Legislatures of nearly every State in the Union have exhausted their wisdom in devising laws to check this evil, whilst the churches have been devising schemes to evade the law and foster it, so that we have the strange spectacle of the civil legislature of the country arrayed on one side of a great evil to check it, and the churches, many of them, arrayed on the other to foster it.

This may be thought strong language, but it can scarcely be thought untrue. We consider it time that something be done to call the serious attention of Christians to this important subject. And as in order to prescribe a proper remedy, it is always necessary to make a diagnosis first, so in this case we would look for the cause with a view to seeking a cure.

The cause of this, we apprehend, springs from wrong views of Christian duty as to giving.

Giving is a religious duty, and should be performed as an act of solemn worship to Almighty God—the worshipper laying on God's altar according as God hath prospered him. Did any one ever hear of a church where the people gave according to their ability, that had to resort to church fairs? The fairs are all wrong, even when conducted on honorable principles, for the reason that they discredit giving as a religious duty.

They are also unwise as a financial measure. Nothing is surer than in the long run less money is raised in this way than by direct giving. For in the first place, the habit of giving is destroyed; in the second, religious obligation to give is weakened, and in the third place, men will say—when money is wanted for any purpose—"Oh! let the ladies get up a fair, and that will get it out of the community in general, without anybody in particular giving very much." So that in point of worldly wisdom, even without considering religious duty at all, it is plain to be seen that it is unwise, and an evil.

The remedy we would propose is this: Never use for religious purposes, money obtained by any one of those countless devices. Let the plain Bible duty of giving be insisted on. Let it be proclaimed from the pulpit, insisted on by the church officers, inculcated by heads of families. Under the darkness of the Mosaic dispensations, one tenth of the income was solemnly set apart for religious purposes. Surely under the greater light of the gospel, a joyful obedience would not stop at the bare boundry of a legal demand. Duty demands one tenth. Christian love and liberality know no bound but inability. But it may be replied to this, we have already given all that we are able, and yet we must have more.

In reply to this we have to say, we don't believe it, and neither do you; but even if it were true, it does not follow that you ought to resort to any of these make shifts. No! having given all that an enlightened conscience and a willing heart prompt, trust to God for the remainder, and if you ought to have it, it will come. The just shall live by faith.—Pittsburgh Republic.

☞John Wesley said, "Condemn no man for not thinking as you do. Let every one enjoy the full and free liberty of thinking for himself. Let every man use his own judgment, since every man must give an account of himself to God. Abhor any approach, in any kind of degree, to the spirit of persecution. If you cannot reason or persuade a man into the truth, never try to force him into it. If love will not compel him to, leave him go to God, the Judge of all."

A New Way of Paying Subscriptions.

The following is an amusing account of the way a farmer was taught how cheaply he could take the paper. The lesson is worth pondering by a good many men "we wot of."

"You have hens at home, of course.—Well, I will send you my paper for one year, for the products of a single hen for one season; and the proceeds. It seems trifling, preposterous, to imagine the products of a single hen will pay the subscription; perhaps it won't but I make the offer.

"Done," exclaimed farmer B. "I agree to it," and appealed to me as a witness of the affair.

The farmer went off apparently much elated with his conquest; the editor went on his way rejoicing.

Time rolled around, the world revolved on its axis, and the sun in its orbit as it formerly did; the farmer received his paper regularly, and regaled himself with the information from it, and said he was surprised at the progress of himself and family in general information.

Some time in the month of September, I happened to be up again in the office, when who should enter but our friend farmer B.

"How do you do, Mr. B?" said the editor, extending his hand, his countenance lit up with a bland smile; take a chair and be seated, "fine weather we have."

"Yes sir, quite fine indeed," he answered, and then a short silence ensued, during which our friend B. hitched his chair backward and forward, twirled his thumbs abstractedly, and spit profusely. Starting up quickly, he said, addressing the editor, "I have brought you the proceeds of that hen."

It was amusing to see the peculiar expression of the editor, as he followed the farmer down to the wagon. I could hardly keep my risibles down.

When at the wagon the farmer commenced handing over to the editor the products amounting to eighteen pullets, worth twelve and a half cents each, and a number of dozens of eggs, making in the aggregate at the least calculation, one dollar and fifty cents more than the price of the paper.

"No need," said he, "of men not taking a family newspaper, and paying for it too. I don't miss this from my roost, yet I have paid for a year's subscription and over. All folly, sir; there's no man but what can take a newspaper; it's charity, you know, commenced at home."

"But," said the editor; "I will pay you for what is over the subscription, I did not intend this as a means of profit but rather to convince you. I will pay—"

"Not a bit of it, sir; a bargain is a bargain, and I am already paid, sir—doubly paid, sir. And whenever a neighbor makes the complaint I did, I will relate him the hen story. Good day, gentlemen."—Ag. Rev.

Laying up for Children.

Parental affection naturally inquires what it can best do for the welfare of its children in future years, and when the bosom which now throbs with love to its offspring shall be cold in death. Many plans are laid, and many days and hours of anxious solicitude are spent in contriving ways and means of rendering children prosperous and happy in future life. But parents are not always wise in the provisions which they seek to make for their children; nor do they always seek direction and counsel from God in this matter. The best inheritance for children, beyond all contradiction, is true piety towards God, the salutary truths and principles of religion laid up in the hearts of children—a good education—good and virtuous habits—unbending principles of moral conduct—the fear of God, and the hope of heaven. This is the inheritance for children, and which all parents should be most anxious to lay up for them.

Many an unwise parent works hard and lives sparingly all his life, for the purpose of leaving enough to give his children a start in the world, as it is called. Setting a young man afloat with money left him by his relatives, is like tying bladders under the arms of one who cannot swim; ten chances to one he will lose the bladders, or go to the bottom. Teach him to swim, and he will not need the bladders.

Give your child a sound education. See to it that his morals are pure, his mind cultivated, and his whole nature made subservient to the laws which govern man, and you have given what will be more valuable than the wealth of the Indies. You have given him a start which no misfortune can deprive him of. The earlier you teach him to, depend upon his own resource, and the blessing of God the better.

YOU CAN'T CATCH IT—You can't catch it, boys or girls. You may be as fleet of foot as the antelope, or you may fly as on the wings of an eagle, but you can't overtake it.

Cannot overtake what?

The bad word which has passed your lips! It has fled to heaven, and wrote itself upon the book of God. You can't catch it.

The wicked deed you performed!—It soared to the judgment, and was stereotyped on the memory of the Judge. You can't catch it.

The sinful thought you indulged!—Its image was caught by the light of God's eye, and photographed on the roll of your history. You can't catch it.

Beware, then, O, my children, what you think, what you do, what you say.

"I know of no mode in which a loyal citizen may so well demonstrate his devotion to his country as by sustaining the Flag the Constitution and the Union, under all circumstances, and UNDER EVERY ADMINISTRATION REGARDLESS OF PARTY POLITICS, AGAINST ALL ASSAILANTS, AT HOME AND ABROAD."—STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.

We see that Hon. L. W. Hall, of Blair, is very favorably spoken of for the United States Senate to fill the place now occupied by Mr. Buckalew. Mr. Buckalew's time expires in '69. Two years hence—a good long time to plant the stakes.

Some of the prominent Republican and "Democratic" journals in the State are suggesting ways to prevent corrupt men from robbing the people and disgracing their parties and the government after they are elected to office. Our cure of the evil would be that all nominating conventions, from the highest to the lowest, should reject all men seeking office.

Unequal to the Task.—Mr. Thaddeus Stevens' reconstruction plan, supposed at one time to be the plan, has been referred back to the Reconstruction Committee. This is considered a defeat of the measure, and leading Republicans admit that Congress is again "at sea" on the question, and the fact is a confession that the honorable body is unequal to the task. Almost a year at work—and as far from a reconstruction as the first day, the attempt was made. What a —— politicians.

Gift Enterprises.—These "institutions" have taken the place of the oil excitement of last year. Almost everybody, for a year past, has been throwing away a dollar expecting to draw a Crosby house, $10,000 greenbacks, horses and carriages, valuable city property, magnificent country seats, (on a stump,) cottage farms, gold watches, etc., etc., too numerous to mention. The greater the humbug the more free the people appear to "pitch in." Hundreds and thousands of dollars have been sent out of this county to patronize foreign humbugs, but we have not yet heard of any prize worth more than ten cents being drawn by any one of the many fortune seekers. Yesterday we received a polite request to act as agent for a western enterprise—"benovolent" of course—but we respectfully decline, and we advise the public to shun them as they would any other gambling or lottery humbug. One trick in all gift enterprises and lotteries should be remembered—the tickets are never all sold, and the large majority of the best prizes are drawn by the tickets not sold.

The President and Congress are still "pitching in." Congress occasionally passes a bill—the President vetoes it—and then it is passed over his head. On the subject of reconstruction Congress is still "at sea," with poor prospects of "coming in" on time. The most important business—to politicians—being transacted in Washington, is the confirmation and rejection of the President's appointments. The Senate has adopted a rule to confirm no appointment of the President made within the lines of the late "Union party." If a "respectable Democrat," (known during the war as a "rebel sympathizer," "traitor", or "copperhead,") is nominated by the President, the Senate confirms him. This is one way of "making treason odious," about in character with the President when he pardons a leading rebel. The "respectable Democrats," or at least a large majority of them, nominated by the President, are the most corrupt men in the party, and the Republican Senate have adopted a rule to confirm such appointments and reject honest Union men who would accept office under the President. Such is politics and politicians.

☞ It is claimed that the salt mines of Nevada are the best in the country. One bed is reported to cover fifty two thousand acres yielding two million bushels annually of salt, ninety-five per cent. fine. No bottom to this salt bed has ever been discovered. As deep as any work has gone the bed is solid rock salt, and from a depth of thirty five feet the salt water comes so rapidly as to prevent work without efficient working arrangements. The salt water wells up to the surface and overflows the large floor from which the fine white salt is constantly gathered.

About fifty years back a married couple residing in Paris adopted a male child that had been found in the streets, although having a son of their own. The two children were brought up together and received the same education; the foundling went into business and made a large fortune, while his benefactors met with reverses, and died, leaving their son, a cripple, unprovided for. The adopted son then devoted himself entirely to his companion in infancy, refusing to marry in order not to be forced to quit him, and has now just died, leaving him a fortune of nearly 1,000,000 francs.

It is understood that an agreement has been effected by which all nominations which are indorsed by the representatives of the Congressional District from which they are appointed, will be confirmed by the Senate. This seems to have been the practice recently.

Proposition to Impeach General Grant.

The Cincinnati Commercial has the following from its Washington correspondent:—

It will be remembered that about a month ago Mr. Ashley offered a resolution in the House of Representatives directing the Judiciary Committee to inquire if any officer of the United States had been guilty of high crimes or misdemeanors within the meaning of the Constitution, or had conspired to subvert the Constitution of the United States. This looked at the time, certainly, to me, and, I think, to most others, rather like the evasion of a direct charge against the President, than an attempt to make it more comprehensive, and to include others besides that unhappy gentleman.

There was one gentleman, however, on the floor of the House of Representatives, who, as if by inspiration, saw through it the instant it was offered, and construed aright the poisonous malice it concealed under an apparently harmless coating of words. The presentation of such a resolution, whose coming had not been heralded by any previous announcement or intention, and was known to but half-a-dozen members, very naturally threw the House into a temporary confusion, and created quite a stir on the Republican side.

What the public already knows on the subject is only what transpired in the way of regular business, but the by-play, that did not come under that head, is the important part that shows the animus of the movement. As soon as the resolution was read, Mr. Bingham jumped from his seat and went over to Mr. Ashley, to whom he addressed some very strong language, asking him what he meant by such a proposition as that, and why he didn't frame it to apply to the President only, instead of making it a drag net to include every officer of the Government. Ashley hesitated awhile, affecting a knavish smile, and replied that "he guessed it was all right." "No it isn't all right," said Bingham. "It's a stab at General Grant, and no such malicious thing shall go through the House if I can help it." "Suppose it does include Grant," said Ashley. "Can't we investigate his conduct too? And can't we impeach him if he has been guilty under the resolution?" Bingham looked at Ashley a moment, and replied in nervous wrath, "Ashley, you're a fool. Don't you know that you can't impeach any but a civil officer of the Government under the Constitution?"

By this time quite a group had collected where the colloquy was being held, and Thad. Stevens, scenting a breeze, had come over to avert a storm. Addressing him, Bingham asked what was the meaning of this damnable assault upon General Grant. "Oh, nothing," said Stevens in his insidious way, "only we want to investigate some charges recently made against him. I don't see why Grant should be free from investigation any more than Johnson. He's just as bad as Johnson." Bingham again denounced what he termed very aptly "a foul conspiracy against the chief officer of the Army of the Republic," and he gave the few friends of the resolution who were around him fair warning that if they passed it he should expose the cowardly proceeding as it deserved.

By this time the resolution had "gone over," as the parliamentary phrase, from a refusal of the House to suspend the rules. Quiet had been restored on the floor, and the business of the day was quietly proceeding. Bingham addressed Ashley, in presence of several members, in language like this, "Tell the honest truth now, who instigated that resolution?" "Why, what makes you think it wasn't my own?" inquired Ashley. "Because," said Bingham, "I knew there is too much cunning in it for you, and I'll bet you anything, you dare that Thad. Stevens and Ben Butler either wrote or dictated its spirit." Ashley again protested against Ringham's right to question the authorship; and Bingham again repeated that there was too much craft and design about it for anybody but Stevens or Butler.

What from Bingham's earnestness and Ashley's faintly disguised equivocation, the dispute had become quite interesting, and a number of radical members had collected around the disputant. After some further bantering and badgering on Bingham's part, Ashley confessed that "Stevens had a little to do with it, and Butler had a little do with it, and that one its principal objects was to give Butler an opportunity of making and proving certain charges against Gen. Grant.

Now this is no story of the imagination. It is a statement of fact, given to me by one who was witness to it, and substantiated by others.

A Reverend Glutton. The Bishop of Verdun, France, who died recently, was considered the type of gourmands. So stout was he (writes a Paris correspondent) that it was only by means of considerable manœuvring that he ever succeeded in entering a cab. The amount of food he consumed at his various meals was something fabulous. Owing to the frequent illnesses brought on by his voracity he was always attended by a servant whose sole business was to prevent him from eating more than was good for his health. Whenever the bishop was invited to dinner at a friend's house, this domestic stationed himself behind his chair, investigated the amount of cutlets, pates, perdreaux, truffs, &c., eaten by his master, and when he considered that he had as much as was good for his lordship he made a telegraphic sign to the mistress of the house, who, warned beforehand, immediately cut off the supplies!

At Orrvile, Ohio, the Good Templars were, last week, obliged to meet three nights in order to attend to the large amount of business on hand—there being twenty one initaitions during the week. This is a most gratifying record. So great a revolution on the Temperance question, as has taken place there in the last five weeks, is seldom witnessed.

Lucretia Mott, and a number of other women, petitioned the House to-day for an amendment to the Constitution abolishing all distinction on account of sex, race or color in civil and political rights.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Feb 2.—The following is the bill in full providing for universal suffrage in the Territories, which the President allowed to become a law without his signature. It is officially promulgated today:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representative of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That from and after the passage of this act there shall be no denial of the elective franchise in any of the Territories of the United States now or hereafter to be organized to any citizen thereof on account of race, color, previous condition of servitude, and all acts or parts of acts, either of Congress or the legislative assemblies of said Territories, inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby declared null and void.

The bill regulating the President's removal of office holders did not pass the House to-day as it came from the Senate. An important amendment was added which requires the Senate's consent to the removal of Cabinet Ministers. This amendment was inserted in the House on the general understanding that the President, under the Senate bill, could remove Secretary Stanton, and possibly might do it. The idea of the eighty-two members who voted for the amendment was evidently in favor of retaining the Secretary in office.

A memorial headed by Mayor Hoffman and a large number of the leading and wealthy citizens of New York, was laid before the Judiciary Committee to-day, protesting against the impeachment of the President and asking Congress to so legislate as to allay excitement and promote the financial and business interests of the country.

The evening administration organ has the following to-night: The suggested National Democratic Convention, by recommendation of four State Conventions, meets the approval of the National Democratic Association here, who, recognizing its necessity, indorse the movement.

The Pennsylvania Democratic State Committee are for the immediate organization of "minute men" to be summoned at a moment's notice for the purpose of defending and sustaining the President of the United States in the exercise of his high official perogatives.

It has now been discovered that a reaping machine goes most against a farmer's grain. See it?

An unsuccessful effort was made in Pittsburg to blast the ice on the river. This time it was attempted with powder, and not by some unfortunate who received a fall.

It is said that Indians refuse paper currency, as they cannot be made to believe that it is money. The intellectual growth of the red man, of late years, is quite remarkable; we believe in letting him vote.

Qualifications for office is somewhat peculiar in Parkesburg. The Times says, "Vote for Gen. Karns for Mayor, who never wore pants or shoes before he was ten years old."

In the Arctic regions, when the thermometer is below zero, persons can converse more than a mile distant. Dr. Jameson asserts that he heard every word of a sermon at the distance of two miles.

The Macon Telegraph thinks that a ticket bearing the names of Grant and Lee for President and Vice President, would enter the field wrong end foremost, but that all creation could not whip it.

The Williamsport Bulletin says:—A jolly sleigh ride took place last week, the "load" being composed of twenty one ladies and three men. This was fulfilling the Scripture: "And in that day seven women shall lay hold of one man, saying, we will eat our own bread and wear our own apparel."

☞ A Richmond paper says the people of Virginia cannot afford to waste General Lee as Governor. We verily believe the people of Virginia have got the insane idea in their heads that some day—in the changes of things—this military hero will turn up President of the United States.

—The Hall brothers take the highest premium as far as heard from, in the trapping game. Aaron and John Hall, of Unionville, Centre county, killed four panthers in one week, near their home. Previous to the closing of the hunting season they shot thirteen deer in seven days, and it is said that Aaron alone has killed between forty and fifty deer during the past season. Certain unlucky hunters in this locality need Aaron to show them "how not to do it."

Estrays.

Persons having stray cattle or horses in their possession throw themselves in the sum of five dollars if they fail to report the fact to the town clerk within four days, and it is his duty to make record of the same, subject to penalty in default thereof. If the owner presents himself to the clerk within thirty days, he is entitled to recieve his property on payment of charges. If, after expiration of this time, no owner is found, the person possessing the estray is required to advertise it; and if within ninety days thereafter, no owner appears, the person taking up the same shall apply to the Justice of the Peace in the township, who is required to issue his warrant to a constable, who after giving ten days' notice is required to sell the same—the money for which is to be paid into the hands of the Justice of the Peace, who is to pay all reasonable charges for the cost of keeping, registering, advertising, selling, &c., and the balance, if there be any, to be paid into the county treasury.

Hon. L. Magraw, member of the Maryland Legislature, died at Washington, Feb. 1st., of appolexy. Mr. Magraw was some years ago State Treasurer of this State.

Local Advertisements.

Advertisements (puffs or notices) published in local columns at ten cents a line single insertion, counting seven words to a line. tf.

Brief Items.

—Ashes are good for frozen sidewalks, but we like Old Sol's fiery countenance much better.

—Charles O'Hara, a conductor on the Pennsylvania Railroad, fell from a car near Gallitzin, and had both his legs broken.

—Thursday, the 14th, is Valentine's day. A good assortment of the comic and sentimental Valentines for sale at Lewis' Book Store.

—James Black, of Hollidaysburg, had his hand hurt, near Black Log station, a few days ago, by being caught between two cars.

—A man named Morrison, who is from Juniata county, was arrested in Harrisburg last week, for the supposed murder of a man named Raup.

—The Ebensburg Alleghanian complains that in that section people have to pay from 16 to 20 cents for a bushel of coal, when it ought to be had for 12½ cents.

—The advent of a good thaw on Friday last saved our people a heap of trouble, such as shoveling the snow off their pavements and roofs. A balmy Southern wind did the mischief.

—Mr. Westbrook, a noted hunter of Smithfield, across the river, killed a wild cat a short distance above town, Friday last. This is the second one this season shot by the same gentleman.

—There is some talk, (and talk it is, perhaps,) of reviving the city charter for Altoona. Those who opposed it before are now said to be in favor of it. What did you say about the man who bit his own nose to spite somebody?

Punkins says: "It is just as sensible to attempt to get married without courting as to attempt any business without advertising." He ought to know, for he lost his heart in the first and his money in the second.

—Hon. A. A. Barker has been elected President of the Ebensburg and Cresson Railroad. He's better appreciated than his compeer, Thad Stevens, who was elected President of a fire company in Lancaster, his home.

—The Altoona Tribune came to us last week enlarged to a seven column paper. It is printed with the original display of business ability, and is the neatest of our neighboring exchanges. Is that saying "plenty," Bros?

— The "Editor's Chair"—who will get it? We could guess who would get it if his friends in Porter had each a pocket full of dimes. We propose that the chair be voted to the best looking editor in the county,—we would then stand a chance.

—Hollidaysburg is to have water works, the $40,000 water loan having been all taken, and the pipes already been contracted for. Huntingdon is in need of the same, but where's the money to come from? Echo answers, where?

—Saturday last was ground-hog day. His hog-ship couldn't have seen anything in the shape of his shadow here, therefore we will have an early spring. We have little faith in the prognostications of a hog shadow, or "any other man."

—Thos. McCamant, Esq., of Hollidaysburg, has been appointed Chief Clerk in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, at Harrisburg.—Somehow, or other, the politicians of Blair do get in luck so, when any office is to be fished after.

—The Lewistown Democrat says it would vote aye to attaching a portion of Brady township, this county, to Mifflin county. We would undoubtedly vote nay, and don't think any consideration would lead us to vote otherwise.

—Norval Hark and the three Burkholders, who were sent to the Penitentiary for a number of years for stealing a large quantity of goods from the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, at Altoona, not long ago, were pardoned by Governor Curtin, just previous to his retirement from office.

—The Quarterly Convention of the Independent Order of Good Templars of the West Juniata District, will meet in Altoona, on Wednesday, February 20th. This is expected to be one of the best Conventions held in the District. Mr. E. H. Uniac, and other able Temperance lecturers, will be present.

—Oughtn't supervisors to remove snow from the roads when they become impassable? We think so, and hope the supervisors in the different townships of the county will confer a favor on the traveling community by doing so. We think there is more danger to arise from drifted roads than from muddy ones.

—The Hollidaysburg papers state that about four miles from Lilly's station on the Allegheny mountain, a man named Wilt and his wife and three children were frozen to death last week. They were snowed up in the house and thus died. Wilt was a cripple and worked at shoemaking.

—The good people of Blair county know how to appreciate the services and keep in memory the fallen braves. The total amount received at the late Fair at Altoona was $4,203 18, which is to be appropriated for the erection of a Soldier's Monument in the Altoona Fairview Cemetery. It is hoped the Monument will be completed and ready to dedicate on the 4th of July next.

Terrible Explosion of an Engine.

We have learned the following particulars of one of the most terrible and yet the most singular explosions that we have ever read or heard of. On Monday night, a week ago, about 11 o'clock, as the locomotive Juniata was standing on the track about a mile above McConnellstown, on the Broad Top Road, having a train of empty coal cars attached, the steam flues exploded. The fireman was thrown back by the force of the explosion to the fifth truck, while the engineer was carried with the engine, about sixty feet, up the right hand bank, when the engine turned over, end for end, precipitated him some distance beyond, about forty feet, into a snow-bank. The engine was completely damaged, and although the fragments of iron, cinder, &c., were scattered for some distance around the scene, yet the tender was not injured, nor was the track torn up or blockaded, but everything was as clear for travel as before, in a few minutes time. All that showed there was an explosion was the remains of the engine on the bank, totally demolished.

The injuries to the engineer were but slight although he was carried such a great distance, but the fireman, whose name is Asahel Brown, sustained severe injuries about the face, caused, it is supposed, by the red hot coal and cinder blowing through the door of the engine full into his face. His right leg was also crushed and sprained in several places. He is now at Jacob's hotel in this place, and is rapidly recovering under the treatment of Dr. Brumbaugh. We learn he is a resident of the lower end of the county. About two weeks ago he lost $700, which he was carrying in his pocket, while he was running along the top of the cars.

Don't Forget the Festival.

The festival to come off at Alexandria on Wednesday and Thursday evenings this week, for the benefit of the Union Cemetery at that place, promises to be a grand and interesting affair. We neglected to notice in our last that two chairs were to be voted for—a "Clergyman's Chair" and an "Editor's Chair"—the Clergyman's Chair to go to the clergyman in Alexandria receiving the highest number of votes at ten cents each, and the "Editor's Chair" to go to the office in the county receiving the highest number of votes at ten cents each. We hope the chairs may be well paid for, as the Cemetery association needs funds for improvements, etc.

A Drover Killed.

On Wednesday morning last, as the stock train east was laying over at the siding near Mill Creek, a few miles below here, a drover got out of the car for the purpose of punching the cattle that were lying down in order to make them stand, to save them from being tramped upon. While he was thus engaged, the Philadelphia Express suddenly approached, and he fearing that he would be run over, attempted to run across the track, but was caught by the engine and immediately killed. His head was struck and both legs terribly mangled. He was taken by the train to his home in Indiana county. His name is Moorehead.

Notice to Postmasters.

Frequent complaints come to us from our subscribers in the country that their Globes are loaned by Postmasters to persons not subscribers and very frequently they are lost, damaged or intentionally "appropriated." Now this is to give Postmasters notice that the Globes we send to subscribers are not to be loaned to any other persons. If the practice is continued we shall take the liberty of making the Department acquainted with the facts, and try to have a change of Postmasters. The Globe is only $2 a year, and those who wish to read it and are able pay for it, should subscribe for it, and not wrong their neighbors.

"World Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York," J. F. Fruehauff, Hollidaysburg, General Agent for Pennsylvania, to whom applications for Insurance, further information, and persons desiring Local Agencies, should be addressed. The special features of this Company appear to offer strong inducements to persons wishing to have their lives insured. The Company invites particular attention to its non-participating rates of premium, which are lower than those of any other company in the world. By this method the Insurer secures at once the largest possible amount of insurance for a stated sum, which is never increased nor decreased during the continuance of the policy. Send for Circulars. 1t*

County Statements.

It will be of gratifying interest to our county readers to read the statement of the receipts and expenditures of the county during the past year, which we publish to day, together with the Poor House affairs. There is a balance this year in the hands of the Treasurer of $7779,69, while last year the same was only $1678,73. The debt of the county to the State has been liquidated, $8020,68 having been paid in 1865, and $2308,36 last year.

A Sister Good Templar's Decision on Cider

The following item which we clip from an exchange may furnish some light to the "sisters" in the different Good Templar Lodges in this county, upon the much mooted question of drinking cider. All those in favor of drinking that restricted beverage may profit by the young lady's enthusiastic yet well-timed remarks:

In a Good Templar's lodge, the subject was being discussed as to whether it was allowable for members of that fraternity to drink cider. The pros and cons of the question were being discussed with much warmth—some of the members speaking twice on the subject. At last a young lady who had spoken once before, and in favor of cider, got up, thoroughly warmed in favor of the affirmative. After a spirited prelude, giving a glowing description of the goodness of cider and its usefulness, she closed with—"and, brethren, cider is a necessity to me, and I must have it. I shall have it. If it is decided that we are not to drink cider, I shall eat apples, and get some fine young man to 'squeeze' me; for I tell you, I can't live without that delightful nectar, the juice of an apple!" Notwithstanding this glowing peroration, the question was decided in the negative and the poor girl is out on cider.

Religion in Schools:

Chapters 3 and 4 of "The Lawyer in the School Room" contain the first successful attempt that has been made to collect the laws of the several States on the subject of "Religion in Schools," and put them in such close juxtaposition that they may be easily compared and understood. This valuable little book also gives a curious legal history (made up wholly from law books and court records) of the origin and progress of "Religious Liberty" in the country. "The Lawyer in the School Room" is for sale at Lewis' Book Store, price $1.

VOTE FOR THE EDITOR'S CHAIR.

That the citizens of Huntingdon may have a voice in voting the "Editors Chair," votes for all the offices in the county will be received at our office up to 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and the votes and money sent to Alexandria in the evening. The name of the office voted for and the money should be enclosed in an envelope addressed "Editor's Chair," Alexandria. 10 cents will count one vote—50 cents five votes—$1 ten votes—$5 fifty votes—$10 one hundred votes—$100 one thousand votes.

DR. LEON

CELEBRATED PREPARATIONS.

THE PERFECTION OF MEDICAL SCIENCE.

Dr. Leon's Electric Hair Renewer.

It is a positive cure for Baldness.
It restores Gray Hair to its original color.
It is a Tonic, not a Dye, and acts upon the secretions.
It immediately arrests falling out of the hair.
It alleviates Neuralgia and Headache.
It radically cures Dandruff and Humors.
It keeps the scalp healthy, clean and cool.
It is an elegant and exquisitely fragrant Hair Dressing
It restores, cultivates and beautifies the hair.
It makes harsh hair flexible and lustrous.

Dr. Leon's Electric Hair Renewer has enjoyed a high local reputation for many years. Its wonderful restorative and invigorating properties are well known to the Medical Faculty of Philadelphia.

Being fully satisfied of the merits of Leon's Electric Hair Renewer we have procured exclusive ownership and are determined that every household in our land shall have opportunity to reap its benefits.

DR. LEON'S INFANT REMEDY.

A most delicious and efficacious cure for the various ills to which Infants and Young Children are subject.

Invaluable for Teething Children!

It softens the gums, abates inflammation, invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and is a sure and speedy cure for Colic, Cramps and Windy Pains.

A most excellent preparation for children of a restless and fretful habit, and in all cases of Looseness, Griping, Vomiting, or other inward grief, it gives immediate ease.

Used for more than half a century in the private practice of one of the most eminent physicians of Philadelphia.

In now placing this article within the reach of all our countrymen, we would remark that we know it to be a Remedy of unrivaled excellence and that it has proved in thousands of cases, as we are resolved It shall in millions, a priceless boon.

For sale by Druggists everywhere.

LATEST FASHIONS DEMAND

J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent

Duplex Elliptic

or Double Spring,

SKIRT.

The wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, carriages, railroad cars, church pews, rum chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any single spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the duplex elliptic steel spring skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the single spring but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in crinoline, viz: superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against imposition be particular to notice that skirts offered as "Duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz; J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs upon the waist band—none others are genuine. Also notice that every hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other spring.

For sale in all stores where first class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere.

Manufactured by the sole owners of the patent.

NEW BOUNTY LAW PASSED!

Attention, Discharged Soldiers!

The Act of Congress approved July 28, 1866, gives $100 additional bounty to all soldiers who enlisted for three years and were discharged by reason of expiration of service, or who were discharged for wounds received in battle and who have not received more than $100 bounty for such service. An additional bounty of $100 is also allowed to the nearest relative of soldiers who enlisted for a term of three years and who died or were killed in the service, to be paid in the following order: First, to the widow; second, to the children; third, to the father, and fourth, to the mother.

Soldiers' Widows.

By applying to W. H. Woods, of Huntingdon, Huntingdon county, Pa., you can have your pensions increased two dollars a month for each and every child you have, and when the widow has married or died, the children are entitled to the increase.

To all who have brought home the bodies of their friends who died or were killed in the service of the United States, there is a certain amount of compensation allowed you for the expenses incurred in bringing home the bodies of your friends, which you can obtain by making application to me.

Invalid Soldiers, Attention!

The act of Congress, approved June 6, 1866, gives additional pensions to the following class of persons:

Soldiers who have lost both eyes or both hands, $25 per month; who have lost both feet $20 per month; who have lost one hand or one foot, or totally disabled in the same, $15 per month.

Persons who have been deprived of their pensions in consequence of being in the civil service of the United States Government, can be restored to the pension roll by applying to me.

Fathers and mothers who were in whole or in part dependent upon their sons for support are entitled to a pension. Also brothers and sisters under sixteen years of age.

All discharged soldiers who did not receive transportation to their places of enlistment when discharged, are entitled to receive it; and also all who were held as prisoners of war, and did not receive commutation of rations when released or discharged, are entitled to it.

Officers who were in the service on the 3d of March, 1865, and were discharged after the 9th of April, 1865, by applying to me can receive three months extra pay.

Soldiers of 1812!

All soldiers, or soldiers' widows, of the war of 1812, who have served two months, or been wounded or disabled in such service, if in necessitous circumstances, are entitled to an annuity of $96.

Local Bounty.

All veteran soldiers who gave their credit to districts in the State of Pennsylvania, and who received no local bounty, are entitled to receive three hundred dollars.

All persons having any of the above mentioned claims, or any other kind of claim against the United States or State Governments, will please address me, giving full particulars, enclosing a stamp for return postage, and they will receive a prompt reply.

BROUGHER'S PATENT EXCELSIOR

BROOM HEAD OR WRAPPER.

PATENTED DECEMBER 26, 1866.

Everybody his own Broom Maker.

This head or Wrapper is constructed of Tin or Zinc, with sliding band and bolts, in connection with the centre bolt passing through the handle, holding it secure.

The article to which we call your attention is very simple, light and strong, weighing but SEVEN OUNCES.

The farming community have long needed an article of this character; and the high price of Brooms, together with the simplicity, durability, and practical utility of this invention makes it more saleable than any other art icle ever introduced.

☞ We offer borough, township, and family rights for sale on reasonable terms, in the county of Huntingdon.

For further particulars, call and see the subscribers, or address THOS. G. STRICKLER & SON,

SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. Store on Southeast corner of the Diamond, Huntingdon, Pa.

POPPING THE QUESTION.—Mr. Smithson (an improvement on the popular name of Smith) wished to take Miss Brownly (another improvement) to a concert. He had been on terms of intimacy with the family for about five years, but "never spoke of love;" on the contrary, he had frequently declared his intention of leading a bachelor's life. One morning he put his hand to the bell handle and was admitted.

"O, James," exclaimed Miss Jane, "where have you kept yourself so long?"

This took Smithson a little aback, for he had spent the preceding evening with the family. Before he could answer, however, Jane's brothers and sisters (eight or ten in number) had gathered about him. Summoning all his courage, he said:

"I have come to ask you—"

"Not here, James—not—now—O!"

"That is," stammered Smithson, "if you're not engaged—"

"O! water—quick."

"What's that?" inquires her father, "who says she's engaged?"

"I didn't mean—" said Smithson, in confusion.

"Of course not," continued Mr. B., "you've always been our favorite."

Then advancing and taking poor Smithson's hand, he said:

"Take her, she's a good girl, and loves you to distraction. May you be as happy as the day is long."

Thereupon father, mother and children crowded upon Smithson and wished him joy, and company coming in at the moment, the affair was told to them as a profound secret. So Smithson got a wife without popping the question, and almost before he knew it himself. But we cannot help thinking he was hurried into the bond of matrimony.

☞ A newly elected and very green member of the New York Legislature was arrested in one of the villages situated on the Central Railroad, one day, for committing an assault upon a fellow-traveler, riding in the car with him, whom he accosted, and asked if he, too, was going to the Legislature.

"No, thank Heaven!—not so bad as that!" exclaimed the man; "I am only going to the State's prison!"

He was a convict on his way to the Auburn Penitentiary. The retort was more than the "Honorable member" could bear; hence his assault and its consequences.

☞ The Journal de Rouen killed a lady recently, and the editor had a visit from the bereaved husband.

"Villain!" cried the bereaved husband, "you have killed my wife!"

Editor, with dignity: "Monsieur, I am an editor, not a doctor."

"That's just it!" cried the bereaved, "You've killed her on paper, and she's alive."

"If she's not dead I congratulate you sincerely."

"Congratulate! I demand damages for the disappointment!"

☞ There is a story of a celebrated French preacher who, on delivering a sermon on the duty of wives, said: "I see opposite in this congregation a woman who has been guilty of the sin of disobedience to her husband, and, in order to point her out to universal condemnation, I will fling my breviary at her head." He lifted his book, and every female head instantly ducked. How great would have been the fall of heads of the whiskered persuasion if the divine had only threatened the man whose love to his wife had grown cold or lukewarm!

☞ A youngster came home after having a glorious time in the puddles, his face all aglow, and his rubber boots full of water. The punishment of staying in the house for the remainder of the day did not seem very hard at first; but as his little heart warmed up with the recollection of the triumphs of the morning, when he had waded deeper than any of his playmates dared to, he could bear the restraint no longer, and went to his mother, saying: "Please, mother, whip me and let me go out again!"

☞ In Chatham churchyard is a stone inscribed: A man has buried two wives; after stating the name and age of the first were the words: "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord." In a few years his second wife died, and after her name and age are these words: "I called upon the name of the Lord, and he heard me and delivered me out of my troubles." The fewer examples of such faith the better.

☞ "My son," said an affectionate mother to her son, who resided at a distance and expected in a short time to be married, "you are getting very thin." "Yes, mother," he replied, "I am, and when you see me next, I think you will see my rib."

☞ A widow lady, sitting by a cheerful fire in a meditative mood, shortly after her husband's decease, sighed out: "Poor fellow, how he did like a good fire! I hope he has gone where they keep good fires."

☞ The man who "don't take the papers," but who observed one of Petroleum V. Nasby's letters in a borrowed paper, expressed surprise that Nasby was not turned out of "orfis" for writing the way he does.

☞ "What makes you look so grum, Tom?" "Oh, I had to endure a sad trial to my feelings." "What on earth was it?" "Why, I had to tie on a pretty girl's bonnet while her ma was looking on."

☞ Many persons look upon themselves as struggling to benefit the world, when in fact the world looks upon them as only struggling to benefit themselves.

☞ Quilp, whose little boy has a penchant for traveling on the roof and gutters of his house, nicknames the little fellow "Gutter Percher."

☞ Two hard things to do: First, to talk of yourself without being vain; second, to talk of others without slander. We don't advise you to try it.

☞ If you want to get a favor out of a man, feed him. A man, like a horse, needs a bit in his mouth.

Better a dog who works,
Than a lion who skirks.

PROF. H. M'ENTYRE'S GREAT REMEDY,

THE

INDIAN COMPOUND

Internal and External Medicine,

WILL CURE:

☞ Diarrhœa, Bloody Flux in one day,
☞ Headache and Earache in three minutes.
☞ Toothache in one minute.
☞ Neuralgia in five minutes,
☞ Sprains in twenty minutes,
☞ Sore Throat in ten minutes,
☞ Cholic and Cramp in five minutes,
☞ Rheumatism in one day,
☞ Pain in the Back or Side in ten minutes,
☞ Bad Coughs or Colds in one day,
☞ Fever and Ague in one day.
☞ Cures Deafness, Asthma, Piles,
☞ Bronchitis Affections, Dyspepsia,
☞ Inflammation of the Kidneys, Erysipelas,
☞ Liver Complaint and Palpitation of the Heart.

Keep it in your Families—Sickness comes when least expected.

I propose to check, and effectually dissipate more ache and pain, and to accomplish more perfect equilibrium of all the circulating fluids in the human system, than can be effected by any other, or all other methods of medical aid in the same space of time.

THIS POPULAR REMEDY is fast coming into use, for the fact that I cure, free of charge, all those complaints whenever there is an opportunity to do so. As soon as it is applied it almost miraculously kills the pain. I do not ask you to buy before you are certain of its efficiency. If you have an ache or pain, it is warranted to do all it purports on the label.

I do not propose to cure every disease—only a class named by my directions. My liniment operates on chemical and electric principles, and is, therefore, applicable, to the cure or natural restorative of all organic derangement arising from an improper circulation of the nerve vital fluids.

Prof. J. H. McEntyre's INDIAN COMPOUND acts directly on the absorbents, reducing glandular and other swellings in incredible short time, without any possible danger from its use under any possible circumstances.

This is an internal and external medicine—composed of roots, herbs and barks, such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on earth to cure all complaints if we only know what they were.

This has been a great study with the Medical Faculty for many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what proportions to use. J. H. McENTYRE,
Proprietor, Reading, Pa.
